A book like this is a private thing. Each viewer will interpret the photographs in his own way. He will remember the events as they were experienced by him alone. The year's events will be reviewed in as many different ways as there are individuals who lived through them. And it was certainly an individual and personal creative effort that brought it from beginning to end.

I suppose there is a need to explain the absence of a table of contents, an index, and page numbers. This book is meant to be an involved experience. Something more than finding your picture and putting the book away forever. Come look, and feel, and experience. There is some order in all this.

The events are presented in chronological order. Students are alphabetical by class, with seniors first. Organizations and living groups are as alphabetical as layout restrictions allow. Student government and university administration is in some kind of hierarchy. There is no end to the book, just two beginnings. If you want to attach some symbolism to this you could make reference to the new start we all make when we leave these halls of learning. Or you could think in real terms and realize as I did, that there are two things going on here.

Special thanks go to Day Williams, who is on his way to doing great things in photography; and Jerry Huston for laying out the class pictures and ads; and Vickie Toy for arranging all those appointments.

Mention should also be made of all those individuals, too numerous to name, many anonymous, who would not let this become my life's work; and those to whom this yearbook is so important.

To them, this book is dedicated. And to MJ, LJ, JM, and LK, if only because I love them.

What Happened

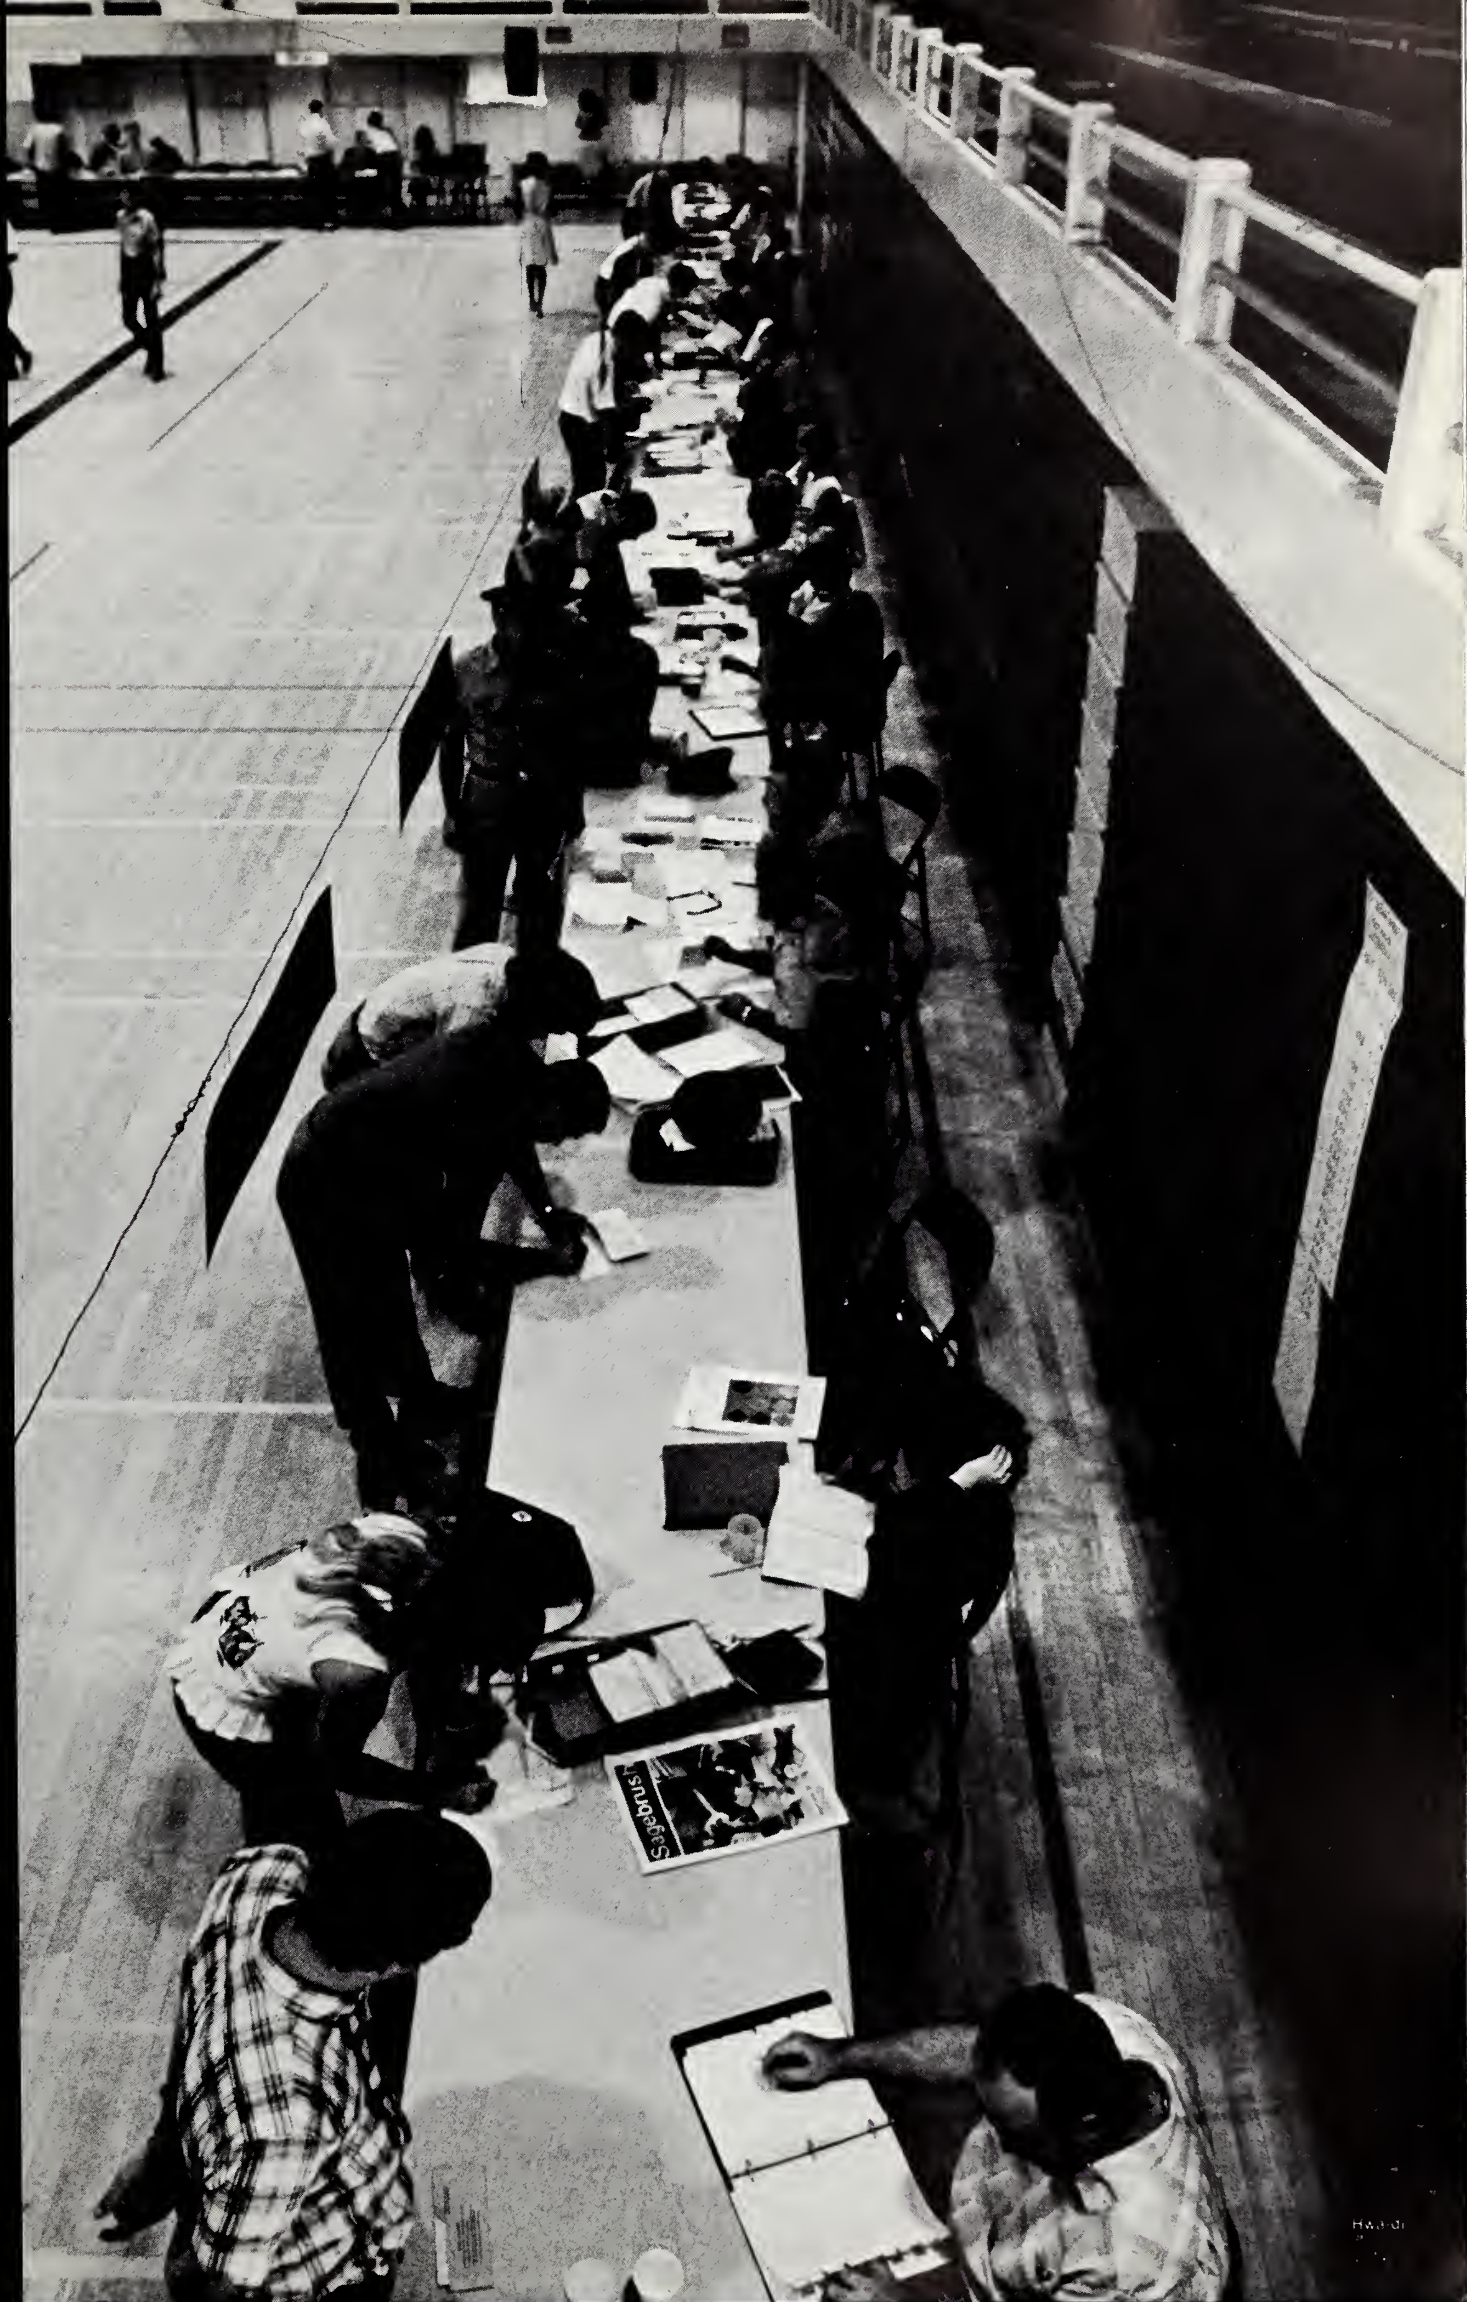

Registration

Getting pre-registered and registered.
Pre-registering means that you get registered before you get registered.
If you didn't pre-register for most classes, they were filled before you could get registered. But, the rules said that you couldn't get registered before you were registered.
There were about 50,000 computer cards for all the classes and students and useless information: name, age, sex, how often, why?
Most of these disappeared into the same files where they keep the holes punched out of the computer cards — and like the holes, they were never again to see the light of day.

Registration is the biggest card game in town,
with the highest stakes.
You have to beg, borrow or earn about $225 to sit in,
and another $400 if you don't come from around here.
Then, the book store gets some of your action too.

No one knows what the rules are.
Each player is dealt eight basic cards, which he plays and ends up with a matched set, two for each class.
But — unlike the card games downtown — here, the dealer a/ways wins.
Why, why then, does he tear his hair?
We cannot account for this . . . perhaps he also is unable to?

Hwa-di

"My class in Armored Unicycle Building and Maintenance isn't until Tuesday at 3.
That conflicts with the course in Card Filing I'm taking for graduate credit."
To get the course you want, you take anything close to it.
If you can't get the right section, get the wrong one.
You can trade it after someone in the filled-up class drops out.
They always do.
Because the only day everyone comes to school is Registration Day.

The Dining Commons Affair

A fiery horse with the speed of light, a cloud of dirt, and a heartless
Hi Yo, Suckers!
It's the lone stranger, Bob Kersey,
head of the Dining Commons.
With his faithful Indian companion, Ptomaine, the daring and resourceful masked raider of the plates fed the fight for law and order in the early days of the first semester.
Nowhere in the pages of history can one find a greater chumpion of justice! Return with us now to those thrill-less meals of yesteryear . . . from out of the pots come the thundering hoofbeats of the grated horse, Silver! The lone stranger rides again!
How y'all, Silver?
Who was dat masked man?

Then we sat out until it was safe to sit in.

"I had a nice quiet job — it was rewarding,
but I was caught in a whirlpool of fantastic events.
The central issue was academic freedom.
Freedom of teachers to teach what they want to teach and for students to learn what they want to learn."

Dr. S.I. Hayakawa

"The big question of quality education is how to give people of superior talents a superior education without their thinking
they are superior."

Hwa-di

"I wonder if affluence and boredom don't have a lot to do with it.
Students who have a definite career orientation are so busy that they haven't time to mess around with campus politics, whereas those who have an ample income,
and no great drive to find themselves vocationally or professionally, still struggling with the problem of identity —

What am I?

What shall I do?

— these are the bored kids who can get involved in student disturbances very easily."

AWS Sex Week

Hwa-di

Hwa-di

The Associated Women Students presented a whole week of sex. Elmer Briscoe, Chief of the Reno Police Department, gave a talk on rape, sex offenders and child molesters.

Robert Best, assistant superintendent of the State Department of Education spoke out for sex education in Nevada schools, while Dan Hansen, president of the Independent American Party of Nevada, spoke out against it.

There was a fashion show where a bashful coed giggled while modeling a plunging neckline.

Rita La Porte, president of the Daughters of Bilitis, gave a lecture entitled "A Lesbian Speaks Out on Lesbianism." Then Rev. John Dotson screened questions and quieted a few angry men.

Dr. Louise Tyrer, a Reno gynecologist, and Mrs. Virginia Ennis, a public health nurse, showed a film on family planning and spoke on birth control methods, abortion, premarital sex, and the effects of drugs on pregnancies.

The Sparks Judo and Jujitsu Club gave demonstrations in the womanly art of self-defense.

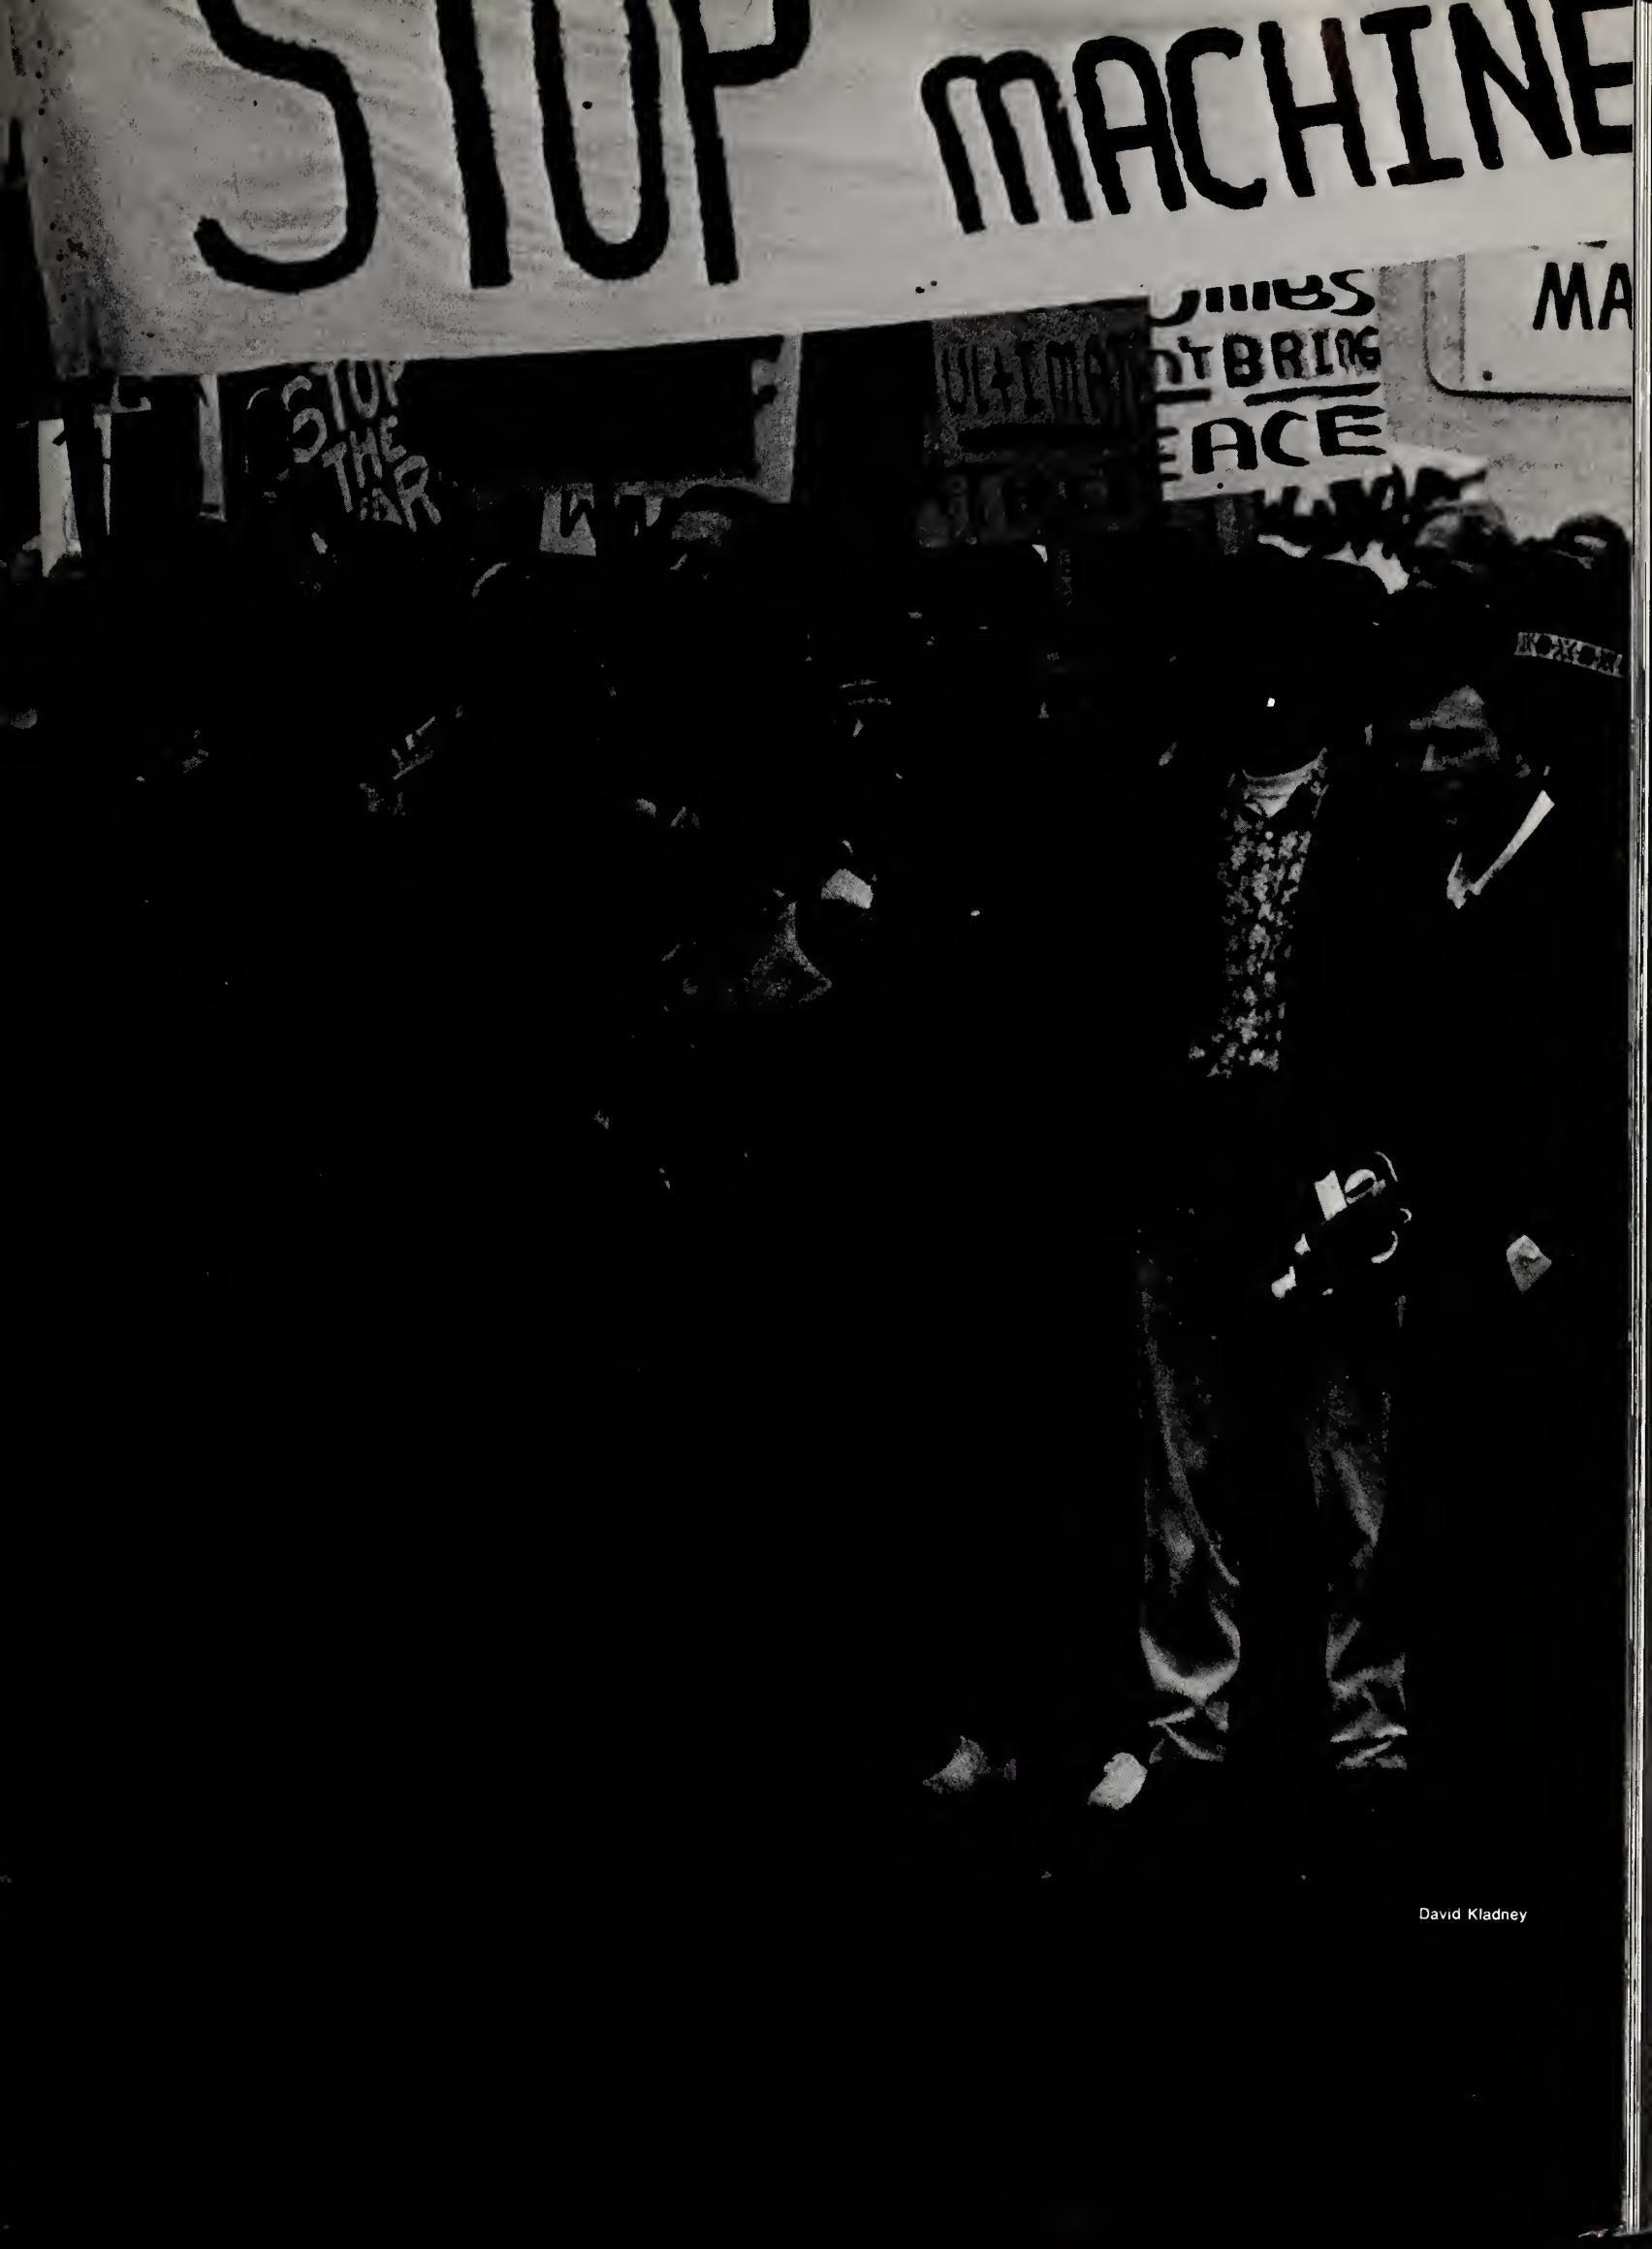

Allen, the cosmic Messiah, gave an experience in communal living with his World Crusade and some members of his commune.

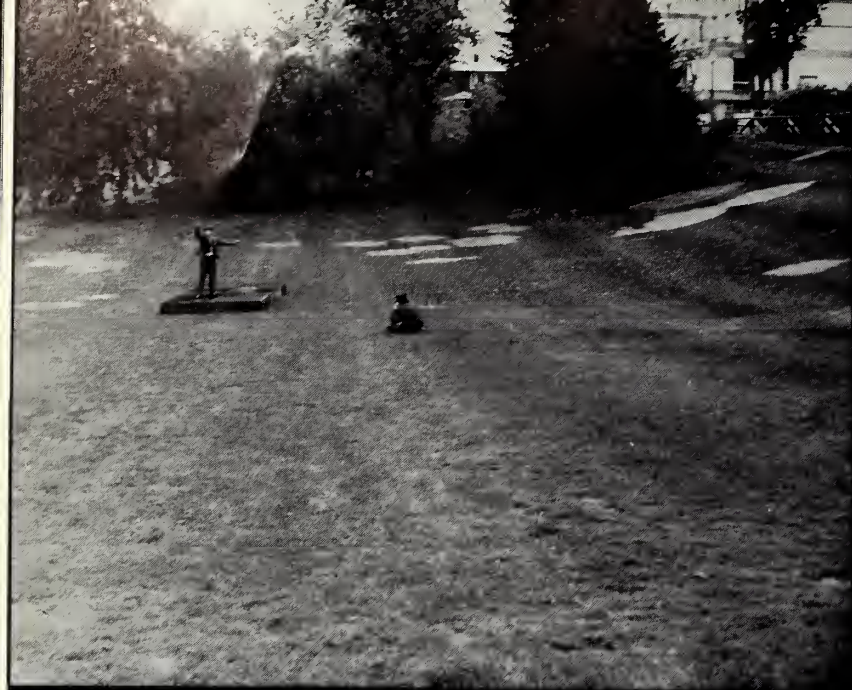

The individuals pictured on the preceding two facing pages are, left to right, Mrs. Ennis, Rev. Dotson, Dr. Tyrer, and Miss La Porte.

“There has been a line of direction

Peyote peddler dropped

Off campus independent Mackay Day queen candidate Karen Jaehne has been disqualified, according to Charlotte Morse, AWS president.

She said the candidacy had to be disqualified because there had been no formal election by the Off Campus Independent Association to make Miss Jaehne their nominee.

Miss Jaehne said Wednesday night she had not been told of her disqualification. "I haven't heard a thing about it," she said. "They (AWS) never called me."

Miss Jaehne had intended to wear an Indian outfit and pose as "Mescalito, the famous Indian princess who peddled peyote to the early settlers."

She said that if AWS would not recognize the OCIA sponsorship, "I'll get the local Mothers for Marijuana group to support me. I hope they will recognize underground living groups."

Miss Jaehne said some controversy had arisen over her portrayal of the Indian princess. "If they don't like it, I can always paint myself fluorescent orange and pose next to the Mackay statue," she said.

So it wasn't just folk rock jazz rock, soul rock, latin rock, acid rock
 It wasn't just spacing out and getting stoned
 It wasn't just grades and making the scene
 It wasn't just outasite, funky, freaky, righteous
 It wasn't just rah, rah, sis boom bah
 It was flashing a bumper
 It was a hype and a ripoff
 Because four kids just like yourself got gunned at Kent State
 Because the US went to Cambodia and killed civilians
 Because two more kids got killed at Jackson State Because nobody cared about them because they were black Because the US won't get out of Vietnam
 Because it could have happened here
 And it did, in a way
 There was heavy trashing
 The ROTC Building was bombed
 The Hobbit Hole was bombed
 There were confrontations
 Blacks and Whites
 Kids and Straights
 Cowboys and Kids
 Longs and Shorts
 Politicians and Everybody
 Dudes and Creeps
 And everybody's trying to nail Somebody
 It could have happened here
 And it did, in a way.

"All must die, we know;
except when we are very old or very ill,
we know and forget.
But some of us ought to die before others.
That I need not say which of us we are shows that we all know.
Children mourn the loss of their daughters and sons.
"Those whom we eulogize today
we did not know.
A few days ago they were as anonymous
as you and I.
By dying as they did they became symbols.
We don't know their private lives,
their private impulses,
their private intentions.
Dying as they did, they became public figures
For they were engaged in a political act when they died.
even as you and I are as we stand here today.
Sometimes our acts transcend ourselves;
they have meaning beyond our personal motives or aspirations."

Each viewer will interpret the photographs in his own way. He will remember the events as they were experienced by him alone. The year's events will be reviewed in as many different ways as there are individuals who lived through them. And it was certainly an individual and personal creative effort that brought it from beginning to end.

I suppose there is a need to explain the absence of a table of contents, an index, and page numbers. This book is meant to be an involved experience. Something more than finding your picture and putting the book away forever. Come look, and feel, and experience. There is some order in all this.

The events are presented in chronological order. Students are alphabetical by class, with seniors first. Organizations and living groups are as alphabetical as layout restrictions allow. Student government and university administration is in some kind of hierarchy. There is no end to the book, just two beginnings. If you want to attach some symbolism to this you could make reference to the new start we all make when we leave these halls of learning. Or you could think in real terms and realize as I did, that there are two things going on here.

Special thanks go to Day Williams, who is on his way to doing great things in photography; and Jerry Huston for laying out the class pictures and ads; and Vickie Toy for arranging all those appointments.

Mention should also be made of all those individuals, too numerous to name, many anonymous, who would not let this become my life's work; and those to whom this yearbook is so important.

To them, this book is dedicated.
And to MJ, LJ, JM, and LK, if only because I love them.
